I have been researching this issue for a couple of days now, and am really puzzled how to proceed. I am trying to populate a JList within a JScrollPane. I have a Frame with a JPanel, and the panel is then added to the JScrollPane. Within the panel, I have a JList and a couple of JLabels. I then set the value of a ComboBox with a modelListener so that I can load some data into the JList. When I do this, however, the list's data is not updating. How does one go about dynamically populating a JList with data? A: In addition to my previous comment, you might want to take a look at How to Use Lists, Scroll Panes, and Editors. It looks like you might want to take a look at custom row renderers. From JList and Using Custom Renderers In this tutorial, we will see how to create a custom renderer for a JList. A custom renderer is a class that extends AbstractListCell Renderer and implements ListCellRenderer. ListCellRenderer class implements ListCellRenderer and provides default behavior of list renderer. Each cell renderer can be used with a list and can specify different behavior for different list cells. If you have custom cells that are expecting some special data in order to perform their work properly, you may wish to take a look at How to Make a Table Model Cell Factory and How to Make a
