As is well known, a dry type refrigerator is provided with a refrigerating chamber and a freezing chamber partitioned from each other by a partition wall formed in the side wall of a refrigerator cabinet and a refrigerant is circulated within the refrigerator cabinet for cooling both the refrigerating chamber and the freezing chamber by means of a blower fan. For example, as shown in FIG. 6, a conventional dry type refrigerator is constructed such that a blower fan 84, partition wall 82 and a compressor 83 are integrally installed on a side wall of a refrigerator cabinet 81. The blower fan 84 is connected to the compressor 83 by a belt 85. However, since such conventional refrigerator is provided with a compressor 83 and a blower fan 84, installation of the blower fan 84 on the refrigerator cabinet 81 is limited by the installation location of the compressor 83, and assembly of the refrigerator is troublesome, since the assembling operation has to be performed through the interior of the refrigerator cabinet 81. Furthermore, since the compressor 83 and the blower fan 84 are formed separately, the outer appearance is poor and the manufacturing cost is high.SILVER DIGGERS One Drop Blood Donation Screening You'll be tested to see if you are a candidate for the screening process.
